

(December 1, 2015) SLEEPING BEAUTY, written & directed by Catherine Morrison. Join us as we spin the magical tale of a cursed princess rescued by a tech savvy prince into a modern musical pantomime featuring everything you have come to love about our Christmas productions: glittering costumes, sensational songs, dazzling dance routines, and tons of audience participation.

Metro Theatre is pleased to present our Holiday Musical Pantomime, an annual tradition for over 25 years – SLEEPING BEAUTY on stage December 11, 2015 to January 2, 2016.

Princess Aurora is castle-bound as her parents fear for her safety due to the terrible curse the Demon has put on her. The Good Fairy helps but Aurora she still needs a champion (Prince Charming) when she gets tangled in vines. Nanny Do-Little (the Dame) works, as little as possible, at the castle. She accidentally shuts her assistant “Jingles” in the washing machine and shrinks her! Mischievous fun ensues; a goodie with some gags, a baddie wanting boos.

The spectacular sets include a washing machine & dryer, an old wringer washer, a castle, a ballroom, a forest and creeping, tangled vines. The superb cast of 27 (including a Minion) wearing 90+ costumes, perform a fabulous musical score with sophisticated choreography that will excite the whole family – even grandpa wouldn’t dare sleep though a second of it.

Director Catherine Morrison describes the production in this way “SLEEPING BEAUTY has all the silliness and fun of a Panto and the trill and excitement of a big musical.”

SLEEPING BEAUTY is written and directed by Catherine Morrison, choreographed by Jordana Jackson with musical direction by Mackenzie Peters. It is stage managed by Shay Cameron, with photo credits to Tori Dolmans.
