

Caleb: Good afternoon, Lumby. I'm Channel 5. No. This is Channel 5. And I'm coming to you live from the K-Lumby fairground. Today is the 18th annual-...wait, no. Is it the 17th annual? I'm sorry. Excuse me. (He flips through the note pad but he's lost his place.) I wrote it down here somewhere. Well, never mind. There have been a lot of them. It's the Wayne Rose Memorial Chili C-Cook Off today. Where competitors meet every year to go head to head in a brutal battle...No. "Brutal" is probably the wrong word. I hope it won't be brutal. It is just chili. Let's hope everyone keeps it chill. E. Right? (Beat. He tries to get back on track.) So. We have two dozen competitors here today, all vying for the trophy. Each one of them has brought their best recipe in the hope of walking away with the title of Chili champion. Let's go get to know some of the competitors. Maybe I'll see you down at the fairground later today for the judging. Thanks for your patience, Lumby, I'm-

(The camera man is waving him down.)

Just a moment. Oh, yes. I have been asked to read the official rules of the competition before we get underway.
